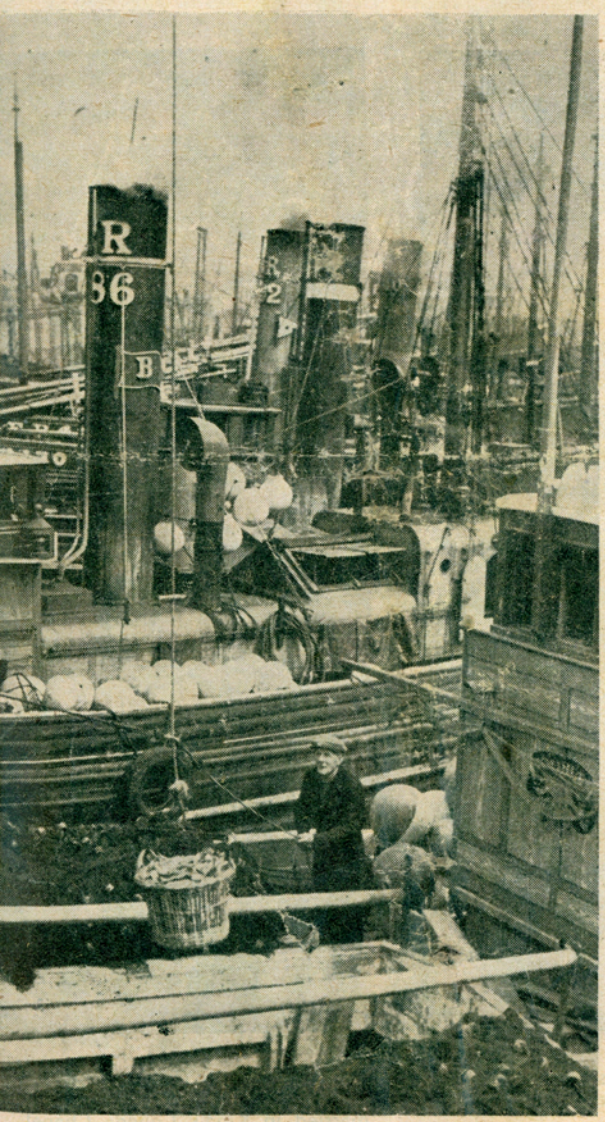
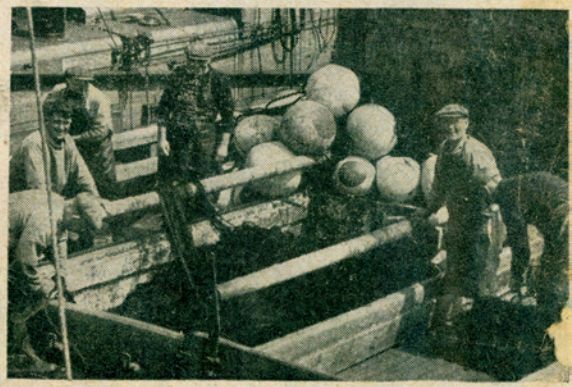
HERRING HARVESTERS



It is "Herring Ho!" just now at Fraserburgh, Peterhead, and other ports, where the summer fishing season is in full swing. On left—The Fraserburgh drifter "Gowanlea" lands her catch—fair quality herrings fit for human consumption. Right—In their quarters at the Fraserburgh curing yard of Dan Taylor & Sons, Stonehaven, gutting girls who come from Embo, Sutherlandshire, enjoy a cup of tea while they await the arrival of the herring. Below—Girl packers hard at work filling barrels with salted herrings for the Continental market, supervised by coopers Jock Innes, Stonehaven; Alastair Graham, Fraserburgh; and foreman James Lees, of Stonehaven. The girls are l. to r.:—Alexina Fraser, Jessie and Wilma [illegible], Christina Mackay, and Bella Mackay.



The men of the drifter "Xmas Eve" "redd" their net after landing their catch at Fraserburgh.
