Donald MacLeod of the West Horn. Buried on the north side of the church of Durness - a bold ferocious man - known by the name of Donald - Mac - Kinnach-Mac - Ean - Vor. Many strange stories told of him - one of which is - an acquaintance came to ask his advice; he said he had killed a man & his mind was continually disturbed in consequence; he wished to know how he enjoyed such tranquillity who had killed so many. "How man" said Donald "is that all? go & kill another; after I had killed the first I felt the same as you do, but when I killed the 2^d I was no more troubled about it!
He was a terror to the countryside while he lived; & when he died the people would not permit his body to be laid in the common burying ground; it was therefore interred on the N. side of the church of Durness -

"Donald MacLeod lies here below
